The simplest method for free distribution

Skolon offers the market's most powerful platform and APIs for distributing digital resources and tools to hundreds of thousands of teachers and students, free of charge, whether you have five or 500,000 users.

More customers

Reach hundreds of thousands of new users and sell your tools through our unique library – created just for schools. Skolon also offers one of the most popular marketing concepts, both digitally and via events.

Greater use

With Skolon, your customers' use of existing licences increases significantly, thanks to easier access no matter where users are located. This leads to more satisfied customers and excellent opportunities for additional sales.

Save development time

Avoid costly customer-specific integrations and complex implementation projects. With Skolon, use is dramatically simpler for your customers and you save valuable development time. Your tools are also automatically integrated into the school's digital ecosystem.

Less administration

Ready-made SSO links, built-in data management and automated distribution mean less customer administration for our partners. What's more, your customers can easily assign and administer their licences themselves.

Improved security

Our modern, standardised data management uses ready-made integrations to ensure GDPR compliance, giving the customer built-in transparency and control of their own personal data.
